

WHEN AND WHERE TO SEE THE PRINCE

He Will Arrive at Union Station at 8:15.

WILL ALIGHT AT GATE 15

AFTER BREAKFAST HE WILL DRIVE DOWNTOWN.

Party Will Take Car at Fourth and
Olive Streets at 10—To Visit Horse Show in Evening—
Departs at 11:35.

PROGRAM FOR PRINCE OF SIAM'S ENTERTAINMENT.

- Arrive Union Station 8:15. Breakfast in his private car there.
- Drives to Fourth and Olive streets at 10.
- Trolley car trip to Maryland avenue and King's highway.
- Tallyho ride through Westmoreland and Portland places to World's Fair grounds.
- Luncheon at Administration building.
- Visit to Miss Potter of Philadelphia at home of Mrs. Max Kotany.
- 434 Westminister place, at 4.
- Dinner at St. Louis Club at 7.
- Goes from dinner to horse show and departs at 11:35 for Kansas City.

Observe me, ladies—I am
The coming King of Siam!
When I am crowned the king
I will not do a thing
But draw my large beard
And have my little ring.

Rapid time, for an Oriental monarch, will be made by the Crown Prince of Siam in his visit to St. Louis Saturday, which will commence with his arrival at Union Station at 8:15 in the morning, and will end with his departure just before midnight, after attending the horse show.

The traveling apartments of the prince consist of a sleeping car, dining car, observation car and the private car Columbia. The train will be backed into one of the side yards just to the right of the station train shed.

Upon his arrival the prince will be escorted from the train in gate No. 15, which has been reserved for him, and will be met there, among them Prince Henry of Prussia, and more recently the members of the Chicago Press Club.

From the midway the prince and his party will approach the waiting room through the first entrance to the west and thence descend the stairway to the grand waiting room.

It has not yet been decided whether there will be an informal reception in the upper waiting room.

Prince Henry spent four hours in St. Louis, but the snapshot view which the strenuous Kaiser's brother got of the city was so incomplete that he is said to be already planning to return tomorrow.

The coming guest will not be hurried over the city of the prince himself. He will not stop long at any one place. The World's Fair grounds, the St. Louis Club and the Columbia hotel are the places where he will tarry longest.

One change in the entertainment program has been made by the prince himself. He will breakfast on his private car, instead of being the recipient of a breakfast at the hotel, as was planned.

After his morning repast he will join the committee, and the party will be escorted to the carriage at the porte cochere of the station.

Prince Will Take
Trolley Ride.

Arolley ride through the business section of the city will be the first feature of the entertainment. At Fourth and Olive streets the party will find special trolley cars awaiting them at 10 o'clock, and in these the journey through the residence section of the city, to the entrance of Westmoreland place will be made.

At Maryland avenue and King's highway transportation, and the World's Fair grounds will be traversed, the drive ending at the office of President Francis.

The prince will take lunch and will attend a conference of the exposition directors at divisions.

Leaving the administration building at 4 o'clock the prince will be driven to the home of Mrs. Max Kotany, 434 Westminister place, and will call on Miss Adeline Potter, who is Mrs. Kotany's sister, and the fiancée of Mrs. Kotany's brother, J. H. Wear of St. Louis.

Not more than 30 guests will be present at the dinner at the St. Louis Club, to commence at 7 o'clock. From the club the prince and his retinue will be taken to the horse show.

Owing to the prince's attendance, Saturday night will be made society night. The prince will be in the box of Mayor Wells or in that of President Francis. A party of ladies will meet the royal company. Special features will be added to the show in honor of the royal guest.

GIRL ATTACKED BY RATE WIFE

Mrs. Krell Tore Miss Ethel Mayes' Stylish Hat and Coat.

HER HUSBAND WITH GIRL CROWD FROM THE ODEON AT-TRACTED TO THE SCENE.

Man Held His Wife While Girl Fled, but Mrs. Krell Overtook and Struck Her With a Rock—Two Fought.

Miss Ethel Mayes, 22 years old, a handsome brunette, was severely pummeled and beaten Thursday night by Mrs. Charles G. Krell, 1813 Laffin street, near the Odeon on Grand avenue.

The frail wife, of diminutive stature, surprised her husband and Miss Mayes in a hall adjoining the winerom of the Olivia buffet, Grand avenue and Windsor place. When they sought to escape she followed them to the street. Her anger was unbounded over the discovery of her husband's infidelity and when he begged her not to make a scene she sprang at the larger woman who was in his company.

Krell grasped her while Miss Mayes stood Grand avenue towards the Odeon. When he thought the latter had a sufficient start he released his wife and ran down a side street.

Mrs. Krell hastened after Miss Mayes, who, not anticipating a chase, had slackened her gait. Hearing rapid footsteps she looked over her shoulder and found Mrs. Krell almost upon her. She ran again, but opposite the Odeon the angry wife pounced upon her.

Mrs. Krell picked up a rock and hurled it at the young woman. It struck Miss Mayes full on the left ear, partially stunning her. Then she clutched the screaming girl's hair and wrestled from the curb to a lawn nearby.

TORE OFF HER HAT.

Mrs. Krell, although 20 pounds lighter than her antagonist, got the better of Miss Mayes, tearing her modish hat from her head, pulled her cloak to pieces and inflicted stinging blows with clenched hands.

After she had in her opponent's face, she wrested away Miss Mayes' gold-headed umbrella.

"There," she panted, "that will teach you not to receive attention from me in the future. I have been waiting for several weeks to meet you face to face and pay you for me of the unhappiness you have caused me."

"I didn't know the man I was with was a married man," answered the other woman. "You have nearly killed me with that rock you threw and have completely ruined my clothes. Now are you satisfied?"

"No, I am not," was the response. "If you ever marry again I'll kill you. As for this umbrella, I'll keep it. Now go!"

The Mayes woman was glad to escape the crowd of curious spectators drawn by the encounter. She hastened south on Grand avenue, seeking a drug store.

To a Post-Dispatch reporter who witnessed the attack, Miss Mayes said:

"My head is splitting. All men are liars, and this is what friendship for them and this is what I have brought me. I have only known him a few months and was under the impression that he was a single man. We met at a ball in Liederkreis Hall in South St. Louis, near the Odeon, and he introduced to him. I have only met him several times."

After her encounter Mrs. Krell went back to the place where her husband had been, but was unable to find him.

Then her belligerent spirit gave way and she burst into tears, sought to comfort her unavailingly.

CALLED: "CHARLIE, CHARLIE."

"I have all the evidence needed now," sobbed the wife. "My husband, a book-keeper for the Keyes-Marshall Bros' livery stable, just across the street," indicating the building with outstretched hand.

"We have been married for 12 years, and have two children. I was 18 and he was 22 when we married. I regarded him as a model husband until three months ago."

"Then he began to stay out late and give no reason for his absence. Finally in spite of all my loyalty I was compelled to suspect that he was not altogether true to me. I began to watch him."

"This evening he left me supper in a hurry. Soon after he left I saw a strange woman on the opposite side of the street. She called 'Charlie, Charlie.' I followed her, accompanied by a neighbor, and saw her meet my husband at the Olivia."

One of the officials of the firm by which her husband is employed induced Mrs. Krell to return home, and she was taken to her home at 1813 Laffin street.

Mrs. Krell did not say what her future course toward her husband would be. Krell was not at his place of business Friday morning. A fellow employee told the Post-Dispatch that Krell was not feeling well and did not come to work.

LISTEN TO THE ANVIL CHORUS! IT IS THE ARTISTS' SHOW

The Newspaper Artists of St. Louis Are Exhibiting Their Work at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

The artists stand around and knock. Each other's work, until the shock is audible around the block. Each proudly views his own design. Exclaiming: "See this beauty of mine!" Pronouncing it "superb" and "fine."

Each claims that he alone is "it." Oh, won't they loosen up a bit! And praise each other's drawings? Not! This week they talk of "real art." Employing phrases grand and smart: And dreams of Paris swell each heart.

This week they strike artistic poses. And seem to walk around on noses. At work they all turn up their noses. This week each artist proudly shines. And talks on phreatic lines: But ah, next week—back to the mines!

MOLINEUX IS NOT THE GUILTY MAN

Woman Testifies She Saw Poison Package Mailed.

READ THE ADDRESS ON IT
DECLARES HARRY CORNISH
LOOKS LIKE THE SENDER.

Severe Cross-Examination by State
Lawyers Does Not Shake Her
Testimony, Though Prosecutor
Says She Dreamed It.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Anna C. Stephenson, 51 years old, the wife of a veteran Brooklyn policeman, a pious, kindly, Christian woman, has given evidence on behalf of Roland B. Molineux, which will acquit him if the jury believes her story.

She declared, with every appearance of sincerity and conviction, that her story was true, that at 4:15 p. m., on Friday, Dec. 28, 1898, she saw a man, not Molineux, drop the fatal poison package in a window at the general postoffice.

The postmark of the package shows that it was mailed at 6 p. m. Nevertheless, Mrs. Stephenson was positive that she saw the package mailed at 4:15 p. m.

Under the questioning of former Gov. Black, she detailed all her movements on that afternoon and showed that the man who dropped the package bumped against her at Broadway and Vesey street, at 4:10 p. m., took out the package nervously, happened to hold it so that she could read clearly the address and, after some delay, walked obliquely across Broadway and mailed it.

Molineux stood up, and Mrs. Stephenson declared emphatically that he was not the man. It will be remembered that Emma Miller, who sold the silver bottleholder, which was included in the package with the bottle of poisoned bromo seltzer, declared positively on the witness stand that Molineux was not the man who bought the silver trinket from her.

Says Molineux Wasn't Bottle Holder Buyer.

Her testimony was corroborated most strongly a few minutes before Mrs. Stephenson came on the stand by Martin Huff, a big, solid business man from Battle Creek, Mich., who swore that he was in Hartdegen's store in Newark, shortly before Christmas, in 1898, and remembered clearly being jostled by a thicket man of medium height, with a sandy beard, cut to a point, who was in a great haste to buy a silver bottleholder.

He remembered the man because of the jostling. Molineux stood up, and Huff, after scrutinizing him with care, declared that he did not in the least resemble the robust man with the sandy beard who bought the bottleholder.

Every human being in the courtroom watched Mrs. Stephenson with tense interest when she asserted at Molineux, after describing the man whom she said she saw mail the poison package.

But Mrs. Stephenson's evidence went much further than this. She was not alone sure that the prisoner was not Molineux, but she remembered the man who jostled her on that day when the package was mailed on his street of death in the mail.

Not Sure Man
Was Harry Cornish.

Conceding that the defense did not ask her to identify the man, she said she could not identify him, but she was sure of the man who jostled her.

Woman Whose Testimony May Free Molineux, the Alleged Poisoner

MRS. ANNA C. STEPHENSON, Wife of a New York policeman, who testifies that she saw the poison package mailed by a man who was not Molineux, but who looks like Harry Cornish, to whom package was addressed.

he was in the room before Mrs. Stephenson began to tell her story.

"Harry S. Cornish, stand up," commanded the prosecutor.

Cornish stood up at ease, sprawling his left leg out before him and resting his weight on his right. His right hand was in his trousers pocket, and as he glanced at the frail woman in the witness chair, a smile struggled for expression on his face.

It could not be doubted that he was thoroughly at ease. His expression seemed to indicate a sort of pitying contempt for the woman. She regarded him solemnly for the space of 10 seconds.

"Do you identify Cornish," asked Mr. Osborne, "as the man who had the package and mailed it?"

"Well," responded Mrs. Stephenson, "he looks very much like him," and that is as far as she would go.

Molineux, who proved an alibi. Prosecutor Osborne says the woman dreamed her story, but he could not shake it on cross-examination.

PRISONER OF A YEAR INDICTED

Grandjury Has Acted on Kilcullen Case.

DELAY WAS UNUSUALLY LONG

MR. FOLK SAYS, HOWEVER, NO
ONE WAS TO BLAME.

Boy Who Was Wounded by Policeman
Dec. 5 Lay in Hospital Until June and Has Since Languished in City Jail.

JOHN KILCULLEN.

An official investigation Friday morning developed that John Kilcullen, who has been kept in custody for almost a year without trial, and whose case became public Thursday, was indicted by the grand jury on Oct. 14.

The delay in the Kilcullen case has been most unusual, but under the circumstances Circuit Attorney Folk says it was unavoidable.

Kilcullen, who is 19 years old, and who at the time of his arrest lived with his parents at 2500 Cass avenue, was arrested on Dec. 5 last. The records show that he was in the City Hospital from that date to June 9, when he was removed to jail.

On the 24th day of June his preliminary examination was held, and he was bound to the grand jury in an $800 bond.

"The unusual delay," said Circuit Attorney Folk, "was due to the fact that the boy was in the hospital so long. The grand jury did not receive the papers until the October grand jury was convened, and the case was dropped at once as the grand jury was not in session."

Kilcullen was indicted on the 14th, but as the grand jury had not made a partial report the action was not made public. The delay has been unusual, but I cannot see that any blame should attach to any official for it.

Young Kilcullen says that he approached Schulte, the driver of a delivery wagon, and asked for permission to ride in it. He was given the permission, and was delivered in the delivery of goods, a stop was made at Eighteenth street and North Market street.

Here Kilcullen says that he started to mount to the seat of the wagon. As he did so the horse started away, and he fell. The lines fell and he had no control of the horse. Schulte ran out of the store, and called for help. Kilcullen was trying to get up, but he could not. He was lying on the ground, and the policeman fired, the ball striking him in the side. He wound kept him in the hospital six months.

Kilcullen says that his parents have moved from Cass avenue to 18th street, but he does not know where they live now.

DRIVER SAYS "ATTEMPTED THEFT."

Frederick Schulte, the driver, is 67 years of age. On the advice of his physician, he recently resigned his position as driver. He is now at his home, 1909 Lynch street, in feeble health.

"That young fellow, Kilcullen, certainly tried to steal my wagon or its contents," said the aged driver to the Post-Dispatch Friday morning.

"He called me as I was passing Eighteenth street, and Franklin avenue, and he said he was sick and hardly able to walk. So I let him climb in. The wagon was loaded with butter and cheese, which I was delivering to customers."

"The first stop I made after he got on was at the store of Mrs. J. A. Jacobmeyer, Eighteenth and North Market streets. When I got off and went into the store, he followed me."

"I came out of the store with my receipt book in my hand just as he started off. He drove east on North Market street and I ran after him, shouting and waving my receipt book. At Fifteenth street he turned south."

"A policeman named Fisher saw him, and when he saw him running after him, he ordered the young fellow to stop. He kept on driving, and the policeman shot at him."

WARRANT WAS SWORN OUT.

"The policeman's aim was good and he shot Kilcullen in the right leg. Then he stopped the wagon at the corner of Monroe street, and in trying to step down, fell and broke his other leg."

TWO KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Premature Blast in a Out Caused Fatal Accident on Colorado Road.

OCURRED NEAR UNION, MO.

ST. LOUIS PHYSICIANS LEFT FOR SCENE ON SPECIAL ENGINE.

Dr. A. C. Bernays Received News of the Disaster and His Assistant, Dr. Frank Floyd, Departed
at Once.

Two men were killed and 12 injured at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon by the premature explosion of a blast in a cut which the Colorado road is building about five miles from Union, Mo., the terminus of the line. Union is 60 miles from St. Louis.

News of the accident was first received in St. Louis by Dr. Ludlow, surgeon for the Rock Island road, which controls the Colorado.

Dr. Ludlow sent word to Dr. A. C. Bernays asking him to go at once to Forsyth Junction to board a special engine which was sent post haste to the scene of the accident.

Dr. Bernays was not able to leave the city, but his assistant, Dr. Frank Floyd, and other physicians left Forsyth Junction at 1:35.

The first report was to the effect that a wreck had occurred by a passenger train colliding with a car containing dynamite.

Later it was learned that the accident was caused by the explosion of a blast before the laborers had time to get far enough away from the explosion.

Some of the victims were buried beneath the great clods of earth which were thrown up by the blast.

All the men available hurriedly shoveled away the dirt but two of the victims were lifeless when they were taken from the debris.

KATZ HAD A KATZENJAMMER
His Headache Followed Imposition of $5 Fine for Quarreling Over Button.

A campaign button bearing the statement "I am a Democrat for New St. Louis" caused Bernard Katz of 1134 North Eighth street and Harry Rozin of 924 Ninth street to pay $5 and courts in the Dayton street police court Friday morning.

Rozin, who is a baker, was in a restaurant on Ninth street, between Bidwell and Carr, Saturday night. He wore the button. Katz came in. The button did not please him. He ordered Rozin to take it off. Accounts differ as to what happened after in detail, but agree in saying that a fight took place.

Katz stated that Rozin flourished a butcher knife. Rozin said that Katz brought in 25 men to make him take off the button and that he only pretended to threaten them with a butcher knife. Judge Treadwell fined each $5 and costs.

MODERN ARK TIES UP HERE Gospel Steamer "Megiddo" Is Anchored at Foot of Biddle Street, Making Repairs.

Tied up at the foot of Biddle street is the gospel steamer "Megiddo" with its interesting cargo of live freight, consisting of the Rev. L. T. Nichols and 30 families who compose the "community."

The ship has been here before and has been described time and again. She left the wharf here last fall and was wintered, where the winter was spent, and then steamed northward again. Most of last summer she was at St. Paul, where the members of the floating community pitched their tents and had made the ship and mechanics of the party worked in the shops and factories of that city.

Winter approaching, it was decided to go South, and the men resumed their posts in with that, and thus the "Megiddo" is the Mississippi to St. Louis, where she is moored awaiting repairs. She will remain here about 10 days, and in the meantime service will be held somewhere in the city should a suitable meeting place be secured. There are 30 persons aboard this boat, each family having its own apartments, and the vessel is fitted for a permanent residence.

RACE RESULTS
At Aqueduct.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
AQUEDUCT, Nov. 2.—Weather cloudy; track fast.

First race, seven furlongs—Com Paul 108 (Martin), 4 to 1, first by a length; Lord Sledge 112 (Knight), 3 to 1, second; Halvino 114 (Shaw), 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:24.3.

Second race, mile and seventy yards—Courtney 102 (Rice), 6 to 1, first by a length and a half; Hockey 103 (Martin), 9 to 1, second; H. L. Coleman 105 (Redfern), 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:44.4.

an old man, and he thought he could rob him. He was a stranger man.

R. Hartmann of the firm of R. Hartmann & Co., commission merchants, 14 South Second street, by whom Schulte was employed, said to the Post-Dispatch Friday:

"The statement that this man, Kilcullen, was kept in jail without a warrant being sworn out is not true. I swore out a warrant against him with grand jury, and I also appeared before the October grand jury against him. I think it is strange that the 10th or 11th of last month that I appeared."

"I don't see why all this fuss is being raised about him unless it is for political reasons. He has a brother who is in the force department, and I think probably their democratic political friends are stirring this thing up."

"I am convinced that Kilcullen tried to steal my wagon and its contents. I saw him running after him. I have heard that he was in the hospital for six months and is still ready to promote his cause. He was in the hospital several months, and he could not get out. He was in the hospital several months, and he could not get out. He was in the hospital several months, and he could not get out."

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF LIGHT PLANTS

City Will Operate Two Within Sixty Days.

COST WILL BE $45,000
ONE TO LIGHT CITY HALL, OLD CITY HALL AND FOUR COURTS.

Other Plant Located at the Insane Asylum Will Furnish Light for That Institution, Poorhouse and Female Hospital.

Within sixty days the city of St. Louis will try an experiment in public ownership. Two electric lighting plants owned and operated by the city will be running. President Phillips of the Board of Public Improvements has prepared plans, to be approved today by the board, for the plants. Bids will be let within ten days. One plant is to be located at the old City Hall, lighting that building, the old City Hall, the Four Courts, the courthouse and engine company No. 4, on Ninth street. The other plant, located at the Insane Asylum, will furnish light for that institution, the poorhouse, the female hospital and engine company No. 25. The construction of the two plants will cost $45,000. Hereafter the city has paid $25,000 a year for lighting the public institutions named. It will be seen, therefore, that in less than a year and a half the city will save enough to pay for the plants.

Funeral of Mrs. S. F. Grubb.
The funeral of Mrs. S. F. Grubb, wife of A. O. Grubb, formerly of St. Louis, will take place from the residence of Mrs. R. N. Hazzard in Kirkwood Saturday morning. # MASCAGNI IN A PECK OF TROUBLE

HE IS TRYING TO FIND OUT "WHERE HE IS AT."

WHAT HIS MANAGER SAYS

The Signor Was Mad From the First Because Wealthy Americans Wouldn't Turn Out to Hear Him and Acted Most Peculiar.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The greater part of the Mascagni Italian Opera Company still remains in Boston waiting for something to turn up. A few of the minor members of the company, chorus singers and orchestra players, who ordinarily make their headquarters in New York, departed for home, but all the Italian performers still remain in Boston. In the hope that Mr. Mascagni may be able to utilize their services, or raise money to carry them farther than New York.

The composer was all day alternately closeted with the influential Italian residents of this city, consulting lawyers and flying about from one office to another in the hope of finding out what claim, if any, he has upon the stage paraphernalia of the company, with a view of making an attachment to continue the tour on his own account.

What success he has met with cannot be learned. Mittenhal Bros. & Kronberg, the managers of the tour, assert that they lost $100,000 on the venture.

MR. MITTENTHAL TALKS.
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Aubrey Mittenhal of the firm that has managed the tour of the Mascagni Opera Company returned to this city today from Boston, where the organization ended its existence on Wednesday night, and talked about the collapse of the tour.

"We did everything to make the tour a success," said he, "but when Sig. Mascagni saw that the public was indifferent to him he became indignant. He would not come to the theater until 8:45. He was furious that the rich Americans he had expected to see did not attend. He would not get out of bed to take a train as early as 7 o'clock in the West, so we engaged a sleeping car especially for him, that he might go to bed at the station immediately after the performance. In the car on the way to Buffalo from Montreal he suddenly leaped up and pulled the bell cord because he thought the train was going too fast for safety. He said he did not want to die in this country, but in Italy.

"I am perfectly willing to let him go back to have seen to the last election. I had been sure that the last election was the vote of the Democratic, Republican and Public Ownership parties. The convenience of the press and others who desired the returns.

The political parties named were selected because of the heavy vote which each polled in the preceding election, which was accepted as a basis for the last election. The election commissioners have not yet taken the official count, but I am certain this is done the Allied party vote will be given out.

NEW IRON INDUSTRY FOR CITY

James J. Hill Divulged Plan to Establish a Large Plant in St. Louis.

The following telegram was received on Fourth street through a private financial news agency Friday morning:
Chicago, Nov. 7.—A prominent railroad man who attended the Northern Securities Co. case hearing at St. Paul states that James J. Hill, while on the stand, divulged a big scheme when he told of contemplated shipments of iron ore to St. Louis.

A company has been organized to establish a large steel and iron industry at that place. Menasha and Iron Mountain grades of ore are to be used. It is understood also that recent purchase of coal lands in Illinois by the Burlington is for primary purpose of producing fuel for St. Louis plant. This will also mean cheaper coal for entire northwest.

It is thought that the new St. Louis industry will be started not later than the summer of 1903, and by next fall should be in full operation.

"THE BROKEN PITCHER"

When we think of "The Broken Pitcher" we are reminded of some accident of our childhood, in this instance the offender is not a child, but a beautiful young girl, Joan Baptiste Greuze, a celebrated artist of the French school, has portrayed the charming culprit, "The Broken Pitcher" on her arm.

The young girl is standing near the fountain; her exquisite face bears slight traces of distress, as she thinks ruefully of the great gaping hole in the side of the pitcher. With her two hands she holds a large bunch of flowers, which are the innocent cause of her distress and the broken pitcher.

A copy of this beautiful painting will be given free to every purchaser of next Sunday Post-Dispatch. The copy is a true reproduction of the original, both in coloring and drawing. It has been reproduced in such a manner that all the details are retained.

MASCAGNI MAY OR MAY NOT COME

MANAGERS SAY HE REFUSES TO CONTINUE TOUR.

ADVANCE AGENT IS IN DOUBT

If He Appears in St. Louis Concerts May Be Given in Music Hall.

Will Mascagni come or will he not? St. Louisans who long for a chance to hear a concert by the famous Italian composer may form their own conclusions from the evidence, which seems to show that Signor Mascagni is playing a game of ping-pong with the public.

Manager Walker of the Odeon received yesterday a telegram signed Mittenhal, reading: "Mascagni positively refuses to continue tour. All engagements canceled."

S. Kronberg, traveling representative of the composer, departed for Boston last night, saying that the postponement of the tour had been reconsidered and that probably Mascagni would keep his St. Louis engagement.

Should Mascagni appear here as arranged, he probably will give concerts at Exposition Music Hall Nov. 17 and 18.

Originally the concert for his appearance was made with the Odeon. But after that contract was made it was learned by Mittenhal Bros., his managers, that Mascagni's houses in this country are top-heavy—that is, that his own countrymen are willing to pay a small fee and sit in the gallery, but that the high-priced seats below remain largely empty.

Knowing that Music Hall is better adapted to a gallery audience than is the Odeon, the management of the Italian sought release from its contract with Manager Walker.

Negotiations, it is said, were still in progress when Mr. Walker received the telegram quoted, the composer's management having offered the Odeon people a cash forfeit to be released, so that the concerts could be held in Music Hall.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY RAILWAY.

The New Houseman System Chartered at Jefferson City.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 7.—The St. Louis County Connecting Railroad Co. of St. Louis, with a capital stock of $150,000, was chartered today. The stockholders are John B. C. Lucas, James D. Houseman, Fred E. Nissen, John K. Broderick and Carl O. Houseman. The purpose of the company is to construct and maintain a standard gauge railroad from Florissant to Manchester, both in St. Louis County, and to construct and maintain branch roads to important populated places in St. Louis County.

FEW CARS TO SHIP HARD COAL

Anthracite for St. Louis May Be Delayed Owing to Big Crops and Much Merchandise to Move.

Shortage of freight cars on account of the unusual demand for hauling the big crops may delay the shipment of anthracite coal to St. Louis.

Railroad men report an extraordinary shortage of freight cars this fall. Always at this season there is a scarcity of cars, due to the number employed in moving the crops, but this year the shortage is greater than ever.

The immense cotton and other crops of the Southwest, and the big crops generally, are responsible in part. Another reason for the shortage is the fact that much more merchandise than usual is being shipped throughout the country, owing to the general prosperity, which calls for large bills of goods in nearly every line.

W. C. Watrous, superintendent of transportation for the Missouri Pacific, says that his system has more than 700 freight cars now off its lines moving freight to other parts of the country.

General Freight Agent Middleton of the Frisco system refers to the shipments of merchandise as abnormal. He says that he sees no prospect of relief from the scarcity of cars in the near future.

Perishable merchandise is said to be spoiling at many points, no cars being available for its shipment. It is yet to be moved, and that will tighten the demand for cars.

In view of these facts it is believed that, even though there may be hard coal ready for shipment to St. Louis, the lack of box cars will delay its delivery.

"HAVE ASSEMBLY NON-POLITICAL"

OSCAR L. WHITELAW.

Public Welfare Commission President on Amendments.

PLAN WOULD BENEFIT CITY

HE TELLS WHAT IS NECESSARY TO SECURE NEW CHARTER.

Bill Must Pass Assembly for Thirteen Freeholders to Draft Charter, Then Assembly Must Approve Their Work.

President Oscar L. Whitelaw of the Public Welfare Commission stated to the Post-Dispatch Friday morning that he would call a meeting of the executive committee of the commission as soon as he ascertained definitely that the amendments, at least those affecting St. Louis directly, had been carried.

At this meeting, which will probably be held some day next week, the plans for acting upon the important amendment providing for a revision of the city charter will be discussed.

"While the returns are not yet all in, I have no doubt that the amendments were carried," said Mr. Whitelaw. "They require simply a majority of those voting, not two-thirds or three-fifths, as other propositions demand or not a majority of the total registered vote."

"While waiting for complete returns before calling the executive committee together, I have discussed the plan of procedure under the charter revision amendment with Mr. Christie, the secretary of the commission."

"The first step necessary to act upon the opportunity afforded by the adoption of this amendment will be the passage of a resolution by the Municipal Assembly providing for the election of 13 freeholders to draft a new charter."

Assembly Must Act Favorably.

"After these freeholders are elected, they must draft the charter. Again the Municipal Assembly must act favorably in the premises and the charter revision amendment to the people for adoption at another election."

"The first step to be taken is, therefore, the preparation of an ordinance for introduction into the Assembly providing for the election of the 13 freeholders. While I cannot say what the action of the executive committee on the ordinance will be, I think that the logical course to be pursued is for the commission to offer its aid to the city council in the preparation of this ordinance."

This ordinance could be drafted without great delay and if the assembly passed it could be submitted to the voters at a special election.

"The freeholders will have a complicated and tedious work in revising the charter, after they are elected. They will have an advantage in one respect, however. During Mayor Walbridge's administration, a charter commission was at work and the results of their labors will be turned over to the freeholders. Former Mayor Walbridge and former City Counselor Schnurmacher are both members of the commission."

Does Not Look for Opposition.

"After they have framed the new charter the assembly must act favorably on their work. I do not look for any serious opposition from the lower house of the assembly."

"Even if the revised charter should provide for the abolition of the House of Delegates and the substitution of a single municipal law-making body, I do not think that the members of the House would object. Some of the members of the House at present would no doubt be glad to abolish it."

"The theory on which the House of Delegates is founded is excellent. It means representation for all the people. But in practice it has been found anything but ideal."

"The school board was formerly elected in the same manner that the House of Delegates now is elected. While I cannot say that the members of the House would object to the abolition of the House, I think that the members of the House would object to the abolition of the House of Delegates."

"The result has been most gratifying, capable and conscientious men having been placed on the board."

"If a new charter could be adopted making the municipal law-making body a single institution the city would be greatly benefited."

The executive committee of the commission consists, in addition to Mr. Whitelaw, ex-officio, of Messrs. Nathan, an Frank, Given Campbell, W. S. Chaplin, Breckenridge Jones, D. R. Francis, C. W. Knapp, C. E. Walbridge, H. L. Lounsbury, Charles Nagel, Robert Moore and H. L. Christie.

BALLIETT'S SENTENCE STANDS.

United States Court Refuses New Trial for "Mining King."

DES MOINES, Mo., Nov. 7.—Judge Munger of the United States District Court this morning refused to grant Letson Balliett, known as the "Mining King," a new trial, and summoned him to pay a fine of $1000 and to spend one year in the county jail.

Balliett was convicted this spring of using the United States mails for fraudulent purposes. In 1900 he purchased what is known as the "White Swan" mine in Baker, Ore., which had been deserted by the original owners, and immediately began to exploit the same and sold stock on the monthly payment plan.

It was shown on the witness stand at the time of the trial that over $100,000 was received by Balliett from small investors from all over the United States. It was also shown that not a dollar was ever paid upon the mine, although representations were made to the contrary in his advertising matter. Balliett gave notice of an appeal. The case has been tried twice and has cost the government fully $20,000.

"FAME IS LIKE FIRE"

"When you have kindled it you may easily preserve it, but if you once extinguish it you will not easily kindle it again." And this is true of advertising. The constant advertiser is its most ardent advocate. The classified columns in the want section of the Sunday Post-Dispatch offer an effective means of profitable and persistent publicity.

The advertisers whose advertisements appear in each issue of the Sunday Post-Dispatch reach over three-quarters of a million readers each week.

A free social attention will be given Sunday night at the Educational Building, Ninth and Olive, to the following:

ARRESTED AT THE HORSE SHOW

R. E. Marshall's Case Continued to Nov. 12.

ATTACKED THE POLICEMAN

WOMAN TOLD OFFICER MAHON THE MAN INSULTED HER.

Crowd Saw Arrest of Westminster Place Resident at Entrance to Coliseum, Thirteenth and Olive Streets.

Edward R. Marshall, arrested last night at the entrance of the Coliseum, Thirteenth and Olive, for insulting a woman, did not appear in the First district police court this morning, but Attorney Miller, whose services had been secured by proxy, succeeded in having it continued to Nov. 12. Had the young man been present a nolle prosequi would have been entered, for nobody appeared against him, and the police have been unable to locate the young woman whom he is alleged to have offended.

Marshall is a member of the advertising firm of Marshall &amp; O'Keefe, with offices in the Wainwright building. He was arrested on complaint of a young woman who rushed up to Officer Mahon and declared that Marshall had insulted her.

DOES NOT KNOW HER NAME.

The officer failed to ask the woman's name, and declares that he does not know her. However, he placed Marshall under arrest and escorted him to a patrol-telephone box at Thirteenth and Olive streets. There the prisoner is alleged to have struck the officer in the face.

Marshall was immediately subdued by the policeman, after which it was necessary to take the young man to the City Dispensary to have his wounds dressed. The arrest and subsequent resistance created great excitement, and a large crowd gathered.

Marshall was taken to the Four Courts later, and John R. Gentry, this horseman, went surety for his appearance in court this morning.

Attorney Miller stated that he had never seen his client to his knowledge. He had been retained by another person for the purpose of getting a continuance, and had done so, he said.

On Marshall's bond, his address was given as the Planters' Hotel, where he is not known. His boards at 5149 Westminster place, but he did not return to his home last night.

Neither did he appear at his office in room 718, Wainwright building, this morning. His stenographer said she understood that he was ill.

POSTOFFICE SAFE BLOWN.

Robbers Procured $1000 Worth of Stamps at Culver, Ind.

CULVER, Ind., Nov. 7.—Burglars blew the postoffice safe here early today and got away with $1000 worth of stamps. Three charges of dynamite were used and the safe door was blown through the side of the building. The robbers escaped.

University's Architect Dead.

Walter Cope, of the firm of Cope &amp; Stewardson, architects of the new educational buildings for Washington University, died of apoplexy at his home, Germantown, Pa., on Saturday, Nov. 1. He was 42 years old. Although comparatively a young man he had rapidly advanced to a high position in his profession.

Mr. Cope was an indefatigable worker, and almost entirely absorbed in his profession. He was a member of the prominent architectural organizations.

Fair Sunday School Convention.

Members of the International Sunday-school committee conferred in St. Louis Wednesday and Thursday regarding arrangements for attending the world's Sunday-school convention in Jerusalem, April, 1934. The committee has closed a contract with the ship Grosser Kursturm for a 71-day cruise. The convention in Jerusalem will be held April 15, 20 and 21, 1934. The members of the committee are: W. J. Allen, Thos. J. Allen, Mich. J. Allen, W. N. Hartshorn, Boston; John R. Pepper, Memphis; J. T. Hardin, Eldora, Ia.; Don Kinney, Newton, Kan.; and W. H. McClain and C. D. Meigs of St. Louis.

ABIDE BY ARBITRATION.

Individual Operators Will Accept Coal Strike Commission Verdict.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Col. Carroll D. Wright and Gen. John M. Wilson, members of the anthracite coal strike commission, had a brief interview with the President today. They reported that the individual operators in the anthracite region had agreed to abide by the findings of the commission and had so notified Judge Gray, the chairman. President Roosevelt was particularly pleased at this information. He indicated materially to simplify the problem which the commission has to solve. The chairman stated that in some detail their work up to this time. The President expressed his gratification that the work had been satisfactory to those engaged in it.

Charles McMains Asks Divorce.

Charles A. McMains filed suit for divorce Friday from Maud Gardner McMains. They were married in Fort Scott, Kan., in 1887. McMains alleges that when he came to St. Louis to accept a position in 1890 she refused to accompany him. He returned to Fort Scott in August, 1901, he says, to see her and their two children and to live with her. She refused to do so. Not in many years has the crop of old-fashioned Gentians (correct name, Rawley Janet) been as good as it is this year. Ordinarily this old variety is undersize and late in the season. This year the skin cracks, allowing the apples to decay. But this year the Janets are large and well colored, smooth and fine. They are selling at fancy prices, 75 cents a bushel.

BIG SHORTAGE IN APPLE BARRELS

Missouri Valley Growers May Lose Much Fruit.

HAVE NO WAY TO HANDLE IT.

REPORTS INDICATE CROP HAS BEEN UNDERESTIMATED.

Rush of Buyers to Eastern Orchards Has Left Farmers to Market Their Own Product, a Difficult Task.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., Nov. 7.—Apple growers in the Missouri valley are having a hard time this season. Apple barrels are hard to get at any price and space in the cold storage houses is all taken.

Apple barrels were quoted at 25 cents early in the season; now 40 cents is being paid in small lots, few have sold for less than 35 to 38 cents, and the demand cannot be supplied. It is feared that in the section tributary to St. Joseph many apples will be lost because of no way to handle them.

This condition is due to the fact that most growers in the Missouri valley generally sell their fruit on the trees to buyers, who furnish barrels and pack the apples. They expected to do that this year and therefore made no arrangements to handle the crop themselves. But at packing time the buyers were scarce, having all been drawn to New York by the reported large crop in that state. The western crop had been underestimated, it seems, and buyers naturally looked toward the section with the largest prospective crop.

Investigation develops that there is practically no cold storage space to be had in the West, all having been taken early in the season. Apples to be kept until spring must be stored at a temperature only a little above the freezing point.

Demand for Davis Decreasing.

Apple men report quite a change in the demand for fruit this year. Ben Davis apples are being discriminated against more than ever before. The demand is excellent for Missouri pippin, winesap, Grimes golden, Huntman favorite and especially for Missouri Jonathans, but buyers look with some disfavor on the great quantities of Ben Davis that are being offered and the price on this variety has broken heavily.

Not in many years has the crop of old-fashioned Gentians (correct name, Rawley Janet) been as good as it is this year. Ordinarily this old variety is undersize and late in the season. This year the skin cracks, allowing the apples to decay. But this year the Janets are large and well colored, smooth and fine. They are selling at fancy prices, 75 cents a bushel.

Jonathan apples are always favorites from the farmer's wagon. Grimes golden sells well, being of a beautiful golden color, nice shape, and the quality is the ideal of every authority on apples. Another favorite, an apple not so well known among the consumers, is the red when well grown, and has a shape which is distinctive; the calyx end of the fruit is the appearance of being one-sided. Winesaps are not so plentiful this year as they were a year ago.

Western Crop Was Underestimated.

All these apples are now being marketed, and it is a most particular person who cannot gratify his taste. With a supply of Jonathans and Grimes Golden for immediate consumption, York Imperials, Winesaps, etc., for later use, and Ben Davis and Janets—or Gentians—of the season, a winter supply may be stored in a cold cellar or cave and the question of fruit supply for the winter season be easily solved.

The reports concerning the apple crop which have been received by the Western Fruit Grower for October show an unsettled condition of affairs everywhere. From these reports it appears that the apple crop in the Middle West is not turning out better than was expected. The crop east of the Mississippi river is not so good as first estimates indicated.

Early in the season it was believed Missouri's crop would not be over 40 per cent of a full crop, while the crop of New York was estimated at 75 per cent of a crop. As a consequence, buyers purchased from New York and flooded that country, neglecting the orchards of the West to a great extent.

Reports received this month indicate that prices now paid for fruit are really lower than in 1922. The farm belonging to J. J. Pegar until my father and aunt should call for the next week. I finally received a letter from my aunt, who had returned to England.

I am here to a large fortune in England. Just how large that is I cannot say, but my aunt wrote me that the interest would amount to $15 a day. When my father met with Mrs. Pegar he told her that when I should be 21 years old I would inherit a million dollars.

From time to time I received letters from my aunt. Once she wrote: "Nellie, never marry. You have a handsome cousin waiting for you in England." She gave me a description of my cousin, and it was from that description that I recognized the man that tried to strangle me the other night.

BOUGHT A BUSINESS.

Now Armen Traxler Feels He Did Not Get It, and Sues.

Armen Traxler this morning applied for an injunction to restrain Samuel Steinberg from engaging in an express and drayage business in St. Louis until Oct. 1, 1933. He alleges that Oct. 10 he purchased from Steinberg the business and good will of the Steinberg Express Co., the condition in the purchase contract being that Steinberg should not engage in the same business in that city.

Traxler alleges that Steinberg, under the name of the A. L. Steinberg Express Co., is now conducting an express and drayage business and is drawing to the concern his former patrons.

GOV. YATES IS BETTER.

Doctors Say Radical Change Will Not Come for Ten Days.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 7.—Dr. Taylor said at noon today in speaking of the condition of Gov. Yates that it will be at least a week or ten days longer before any radical change will be noted in the condition of the patient. The governor has almost entirely recovered from his slight relapse last night and his fever was down to 102 this morning.

THINKS HER COUSIN COVETS HER FORTUNE

GIRL DECLARES HE HAS TWICE ATTACKED HER.

WAIF TELLS A STRANGE STORY.

Says a Million Awaits Her in England, but That Relative-Hopes to Get It.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 7.—Miss Nellie Ingram, employed at the Merchants' Hotel, says that the stranger who recently attacked her was her cousin, seeking to kill her that he may inherit a great English fortune.

Miss Ingram has been released from the Samaritan Hospital, where she was sent when it was charged that she was insane. There has been no evidence to support that charge.

"I was born in England," she said today. "My mother died when I was a baby. My father and my aunt brought me to the United States. They reached Sioux City, Iowa, and I was left in the farm belonging to J. J. Pegar until my father and aunt should call for the next week. I finally received a letter from my aunt, who had returned to England."

I am here to a large fortune in England. Just how large that is I cannot say, but my aunt wrote me that the interest would amount to $15 a day. When my father met with Mrs. Pegar he told her that when I should be 21 years old I would inherit a million dollars.

Knocked Out in First Round.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 6.—Owen Zeigler of this city put Jack Bennett of McKeesport, Pa., out in the first round last night.

The bout was twenty rounds at 167 pounds, but before the first round was half over, Zeigler caught Bennett on the point of the jaw with a right uppercut, and the Pennsylvania man went down and out.

FRAUD INQUIRY COMMENCES.

Mr. Folk Will Spend Several Weeks in Investigation.

Preliminary to his investigation of election fraud, Circuit Attorney Folk yesterday afternoon conferred with Chief of Police Kieley. The instructions issued to the police regarding their conduct at the polls were the topic of conversation.

Mr. Folk's investigation will not be concluded for several weeks, as other cases are on hand in large numbers. The charges of fraud will be taken up precinct by precinct as presented.

Which He Liked Better Still.

From the Chicago Tribune. "Tell me, Harold," she said, as the gentle old horse they were driving along the country road dropped into a walk, "am I your ideal girl?"

"No," he said fervently. "You're my real girl!" Whereupon the horse, finding himself totally neglected, stopped and began to browse.

Deaths From Wild Beasts in India.

From the New York Times. In spite of the many plans which have been tried by the Indian government there is no diminution, but rather the contrary, in the number of deaths caused by wild beasts of rams by sportsmen and hunters to account for this failure of the executive, but it is pretty well agreed that the destruction of rams by sportsmen and hunters compels tigers, leopards, wolves and hyenas to prey to a greater extent on humanity.

Distress After Eating

Nausea between meals, belching, vomiting, flatulency, fits of nervous headache, pain in the stomach, are all symptoms of dyspepsia, and the longer it is neglected the harder it is to cure it.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Radically and permanently cure it—strengthen and tone the stomach and other digestive organs for the natural performance of their functions.

Accept no substitute for Hood's.

"I had dyspepsia twenty-five years, and took different medicines but got no help until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Have taken four bottles of this medicine and can now eat almost anything, sleep well, have no cramps in my stomach, no nervous distress." MRS. WILLIAM G. BARRETT, 14 Olney St., Providence, R. I.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keep the promise.

The Wonderful Business

This store has enjoyed from the day of its opening stamps as a fact our constant claim of underselling. If we didn't give the Clothing Buyers of Greater St. Louis a larger measure of value and satisfaction than was ever obtained before our coming, we couldn't expect and wouldn't get the patronage that keeps our store crowded day after day. It is the people who know clothing that have judged this store, and we couldn't have asked for a more favorable decision.

POPULAR SUITS FOR MEN.

The extraordinary business we are doing in Men's Suits at $9.75, $11.50 and $14.75 proves the values to be far above the ordinary. It has given us also the opportunity to pick up some grand suits to add to our stocks at these prices. The assortment today is larger and more varied than when we opened. HIGH TARIFF MEN WILL FIGHT HARD FOR HIM.

Other Candidates Are Out, but the Illinoisan Can Hardly Be Beaten for Rich Plum Dropped by Henderson.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Representative Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois is far ahead in the race for speaker of the Fifty-eighth Congress and his selection as successor to David B. Henderson is probable.

He seems to be the choice of a majority of the Republican representatives elected to the next Congress, although a strong effort will be made in the interest of John Dalzell of Pittsburg.

The friends of Representative Hitt of Illinois announced that they would present his name, but this was looked upon merely as an effort to split the Illinois delegation and weaken Cannon, for no one believes that Hitt would make a winning fight on his own account.

Representative Sherman of New York was also talked over.

Word was received in Washington today that Gen. Grover had asked the Ohio Republican representatives not to commit themselves on the speakership until after there had been a conference.

He has written other friends in Congress suggesting that they take their time in making up their minds.

No one here is competent to speak for the General, but it is supposed that he has no intention of making a bid for the speakership.

Another important change will be the breaking away, for the time at least, from Senate control. The ruling clique in the Senate detached from the House of Representatives, and there never was a minute when he was not under the control of this powerful group of legislators.

Cannon, if elected, will start out with more freedom than a speaker has enjoyed for years.

RICHARD H. TOWNSEND HURT
Saddle Girth Slipped and Fell to the Ground, Probably Injured Him Fatally.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Richard H. Townsend was thrown from his horse while riding on the Tenallytown road and so severely injured that his physicians think he will die.

Mr. Townsend and his daughter had started for the Country Club. When they reached the Country Club, the daughter, Miss Townsend, decided she would remain there for a time, and then go on to the club.

Before he had reached the gate of the Country Club, his horse slipped and he fell to the ground. When Miss Townsend reached her father, he was unconscious. He has not regained consciousness, and there are slight hopes of his recovery.

Mr. Townsend's wife is one of the leaders of society here. She is the daughter of William L. Scott, the Pennsylvania coal and iron king. She has a very large income, and is the recipient of the attention of many of the young men of the city.

Mr. Townsend was a lawyer in Philadelphia when he married Miss Scott.

California VIA Sunset Route. Beginning Nov. 15, the Southern Pacific Co. will inaugurate double daily service between New Orleans and San Francisco.

The world-famous "Sunset Limited" will leave New Orleans at 10:45 a. m. and the "Pacific Express" at 9:00 p. m.

Both trains are fully equipped in the latest and most approved pattern, and are strictly up to date in every particular.

If you wish to have an enjoyable trip to California this winter, see that your tickets read via New Orleans and "Sunset Route." Quickest time and best service.

PRELATE SERIOUSLY ILL.
Mr. Muehlenbein Suffers From Paralytic Stroke.

The condition of Right Rev. Mr. Muehlenbein, vicar general of the St. Louis archdiocese, was slightly improved yesterday, but it was feared that his ultimate recovery can hardly be anticipated.

The heart's action is said to be weak and there are accompanying symptoms which inspire a doubt whether he can ever be well again.

He was stricken with paralysis eight days ago, and has been confined to his bed ever since. A private chapel has been fitted up in the house so that the vicar general may pass his last days in peace.

United Daughters of the Confederacy. New Orleans, La.; 11 round trip, Nov. 7 to 14, via Illinois Central.

Green-Maguire Nuptials. Miss Henrietta Mary Green, daughter of Mr. Charles Green, was married at 6 o'clock yesterday evening at Holy Ann's church to Mr. Charles Joseph Maguire. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Kennedy, and the church was thronged with the relatives and friends of the young couple.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Charles Green, who was aided by her brother, Mr. George Maguire, who acted as best man.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. Green, 1415 Longview boulevard, and Mr. and Mrs. Maguire departed later for a honeymoon trip. They will live at 1415 Longview boulevard.

LESTER SET FREE BY QUINCY COURT

NO DIRECT EVIDENCE THAT HE KILLED LARIMORE.

GRANDJURY WILL PROBE

The Prosecution, It Is Said, Did Not Care to Disclose Its Case at Preliminary Hearing.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 7.—The preliminary hearing of Millard F. Lester, for the alleged killing of young Fred Larimore, came to a sudden end last evening, when Justice Thomas Morehead discharged the defendant because there was no direct evidence of his guilt.

When the state's attorney announced that he was through offering evidence the attorneys for the defense moved that the client be discharged as the evidence and hearing came to an end.

It is claimed that the state had evidence sufficient to have held him, but that it did not care to show its hand in a preliminary hearing.

The case will now be taken before the grand jury, and an effort made to have Lester indicted for the crime.

It is known that the state had circumstantial evidence stronger than any that developed at the hearing—evidence that would have a tendency to fix the motive for the crime, it is claimed. This will be presented to the grand jury.

DOUKHOBORS SUFFER ON MARCH

Fanatics Have Only Raw Potatoes and Frozen Turnips to Sustain Them on Cold March.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Nov. 7.—Heavy snow fell last night in northern Manitoba, the district through which the Doukhobors are marching.

The good inhabitants of Shovel Lake village, where the night was spent by the pilgrims, gave up their barns and outbuildings to shelter all they could, but many had to sleep outdoors.

A Post-Dispatch correspondent visited the main Doukhobor camp at noon today. Dinner consisted of raw potatoes and frozen turnips in meager quantities, together with what little the little 50 forerunners had been able to buy from house to house.

All show signs of distress and exposure and lack of food. They will not speak of anything but Jesus and absolutely refuse to entertain any idea of returning to their settlement.

Wedding Invitations. Finest material, most perfect workmanship. All work executed in our own stationery shop. Samples mailed free.

MERMED & JACARD'S. On Broadway, cor. Lucust st.

UNDERTAKER DIES AT FUNERAL. Edward Ferguson Stricken With Apoplexy at Saroxie Thursday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CARTRIDGE, Mo., Nov. 7.—At the funeral of Charles Martin last night at midnight in Saroxie, a small town in Jasper County, 15 miles east of Cartridge, the undertaker, Edward Ferguson, fell stricken with apoplexy and died an hour later.

Martin had been killed on the afternoon of the election in a fight.

BARON MUENCHHAUSEN NOT BLACKMAILED. LAWYER FOR CREDITORS TO PRESENT HIS DUE BILLS.

GAVE THEM FOR AN HEIRESS. But Plan to Marry American Girl With $7,000,000 Misacquired—Baroness Explains Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Dispatches from Berlin announce that Baron Burchard von Muenchhausen has lost his prosecution of three tradesmen whom he charged with blackmail in attempting to collect money from him on due bills given to a syndicate to promote his marriage to an American heiress to $7,000,000.

It developed at the trial that the due bills were given on a basis of 5 per cent of the heiress' wealth which was to be the fee for promoting the marriage.

The baron went to America in 1898 and wedded Mrs. Martha Washington Beckel, a widow with a moderate fortune. While he was absent from Germany the due bills were negotiated, and they have been haunting the baron since.

The name of the heiress whom the investigation concerned was not mentioned during the trial.

By the decision of the court the baron's persecutors may continue to worry him with impunity.

Baroness von Muenchhausen is visiting her father in this city.

The baroness declares that her husband had no knowledge of the alleged claims of the syndicate when he borrowed funds from Bessler, one of the men named in the suit. He was a poor officer in the German army, she continued and had run into debt.

His estate, handed down from the great story teller, was in the hands of a cousin and the baron was compelled to have funds did not learn until afterward, she says, that he was in the hands of an organized band whose operations are alleged to have been carried on for some time among the German aristocracy.

It was true, she admits, that the baron was engaged at the time to a southern girl of great wealth and that, after he came to this country, the engagement was broken on account of the religious differences.

While in this country the baron, she explained, learned of the objects of his creditors of farming and pursued his object in the West and Virginia for some time. The estate, which is said to be one of the finest in northern Germany, was taken from the hands of the baron's cousin later and the couple have since resided there.

The baroness says a syndicate was formed to prospect for oil on the lands and this settled his indebtedness to Bessler. The baron, she says, compelled the latter to return money for $20,000,000, which he had signed, and then brought the suit mentioned.

Viavi, woman's way to health; booklet free by mail or at 406 Mermud-Jaccard building.

Driver Bruised, Horse Killed.—A Broadway Line car struck a wagon at A. B. C. street last night, killing the horse, damaging the wagon $400 and throwing out Joseph Suttorf, the driver, who was bruised about the body.

OFFICIALS SHRINK FROM USING ALUM

WATER WILL BE ALLOWED TO SETTLE ITSELF.

NEW BASINS TO BE PROVIDED

Mr. Flad's Proposal for Coagulation Disapproved by B. P. I. Members.

The Board of Public Improvements yesterday stamped with its disapproval the plan to use alum as a coagulant in clarifying the city water supply, and therefore alum will not be employed.

The board referred back to Water Commissioner Flad his draft of an ordinance in which alum was named as a coagulant, with instructions to amend it so that the ordinance will provide for sedimentation alone, eliminating coagulation.

The board originally approved the draft and sent it to the City Council, which returned it with the request that it be divided into two bills. This action was taken by the City Council because the bill provided both for coagulation by the use of alum and for sedimentation by reconstructing the settling basins.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Last Time Skin Food Will Be Given Free.

This will be the last time Mme. Yale's Skin Food will ever be sampled. Mme. Yale has been so very generous in this respect during the past few years that many of our patrons have gotten into the habit of waiting for Special Sales and Free Souvenir Samples. Therefore we take advantage of this opportunity to inform the public that this will be the last and only chance to get Mme. Yale's Skin Food free.

INDORSEMENT.

We take great pleasure in stating that our experience in handling Mme. Yale's Remedies has been most satisfactory in every respect. We hear nothing but words of praise from those who use them. The enormous amount of these preparations sold over our counters in the course of a year, and the increasing demand for these specialties, speak volumes in their favor. Mme. Yale's Remedies possess great merit. They are genuine health restoratives and beauty givers. Artificiality forms no part of their mission. Their composition is based on science—we are pleased to recommend them.

FREE SKIN FOOD COUPON.

This coupon entitles the holder to a Souvenir Jar of Mme. Yale's Skin Food with each purchase of any of Mme. Yale's goods made in our Drug Department this week amounting to 75c or over. Cut this coupon out and bring it with you.

DIPLOMAS FOR THE HIRED GIRL

PLAN OF CHICAGO HOUSEWIVES' ASSOCIATION.

"MATRON" AND "MAID" NOW

The Words "Mistress," "Domestic" and "Servant" Are to Be Eliminated.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The Chicago Housewives' Association has determined to find relief from incompetent servants. The association held a meeting at which the vexing question was taken up and discussed in all its phases, and the conclusion was reached that in the future servants to insure themselves employment in families of members, must hold a diploma issued by the organization.

The meeting was held at the Grand Pacific Hotel, and was well attended. Sample diplomas were drawn up and considered, and a certain form was practically decided on. It is probable that real parchment will be used and phrases telling all "to whom these presents come" that the holder ranks as "satisfactory," "good" or "markedly efficient" will be engraved in old English script.

Every care is to be taken to guard against diplomas being issued to those who are not worthy. The rules regarding the granting of the diplomas are to be very definite and strict. For a young woman to secure a diploma it will be necessary for her to have been in the employment of one family for not less than a year. Beside this, she must have performed her duties satisfactorily and proven that she is competent.

The parchment once secured, however, is intended to be of the greatest assistance to the holder. It will insure a servant in a position where conditions are in accord with the ideals of the Housewives' Association. The wording of the diplomas will vary according to the positions held by the servants, and under the plans suggested yesterday graduate cooks, waiting maids and ladies' maids will hereafter be found among the ranks of household servants. The association is enthusiastic over the scheme and the members feel certain that strict enforcement of the idea will do much to remove conditions that have vexed housewives for all time.

"We have graduate nurses to look after us when we are sick," said one of the members of the association, "why should we not have graduate maids to look after us when we are well and by their skill help to keep us in that condition?"

In settling on a plan for remedying evils in the way of efficient servants the organization also decided that a change was needed in the nomenclature denoting employer and employee in the household world. Various terms were discussed and many of the members declared that in the future in their households the words "mistress," "domestic," "servant" and "girl" would not be allowed. Instead it will be "matron" and "maid," which terms, the majority of the members insisted, were the only proper ones by which employer and employee should be known.

EDUCATOR SAYS IT ONLY NEEDS TO BE DIRECTED.

SHOWS ORGANIZING SPIRIT

Teaches Loyalty, Courage and Sympathy and Should Be Won, Not Antagonized.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—At the final meeting of the "Congress About Boys" Dr. Nathan Oppenheim told of a series of experiments he once made to produce a race of rats having tails growing from the middle of their backs.

He grafted the tip of the tail of each rat to the middle of its back, he said, and when the union was perfectly formed he cut off the tail at its base. This he did with 14 successive generations of rats.

The rats of the fifteenth generation were born with tails growing in the usual place and no tendency to inherit the acquired characteristics of the parents was shown.

The experiments with the rats were cited by the speaker in support of the contention that acquired characteristics are never inheritable. If the child is like the father, he said, it is because its environment is the same, and all that it needs to rise above that condition is a higher environment, which it can respond.

Dr. Luther Gulick, principal of Pratt Institute High School, Brooklyn, read a paper on "The Organizing Instinct of Boys." This instinct, he said, manifests itself in the development of the "gang." There is in every boy an unreasonable impulse to associate with others of his kind in social activities.

"The gangs are regarded as bad because they tend to express the old predatory spirit of the tribe," he said.

Dr. Gulick had much of good to say of the gang. It develops loyalty, courage and sympathy. Loyalty is its prime requisite—loyalty to the gang. To this organizing spirit, shown in every boy, and which girls and women do not possess, he attributed the present society and civilization. The day of co-operation among women is just dawning.

"Boys and men," he said, "are fundamentally loyal to the gang; woman is not. The gang spirit in the boy is not to be antagonized; it is to be directed, to be won."

That and Book Royalties, Widow Says, Constitutes His Estate.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Jeanette Norris, the widow of Frank Norris, the novelist, who succumbed to appendicitis in this city a few weeks ago, has filed a petition for letters of administration on his estate in the superior court.

Mrs. Norris states that, to the best of her knowledge and belief, the author died testate. She alleges the entire estate consists of $1000 cash in the bank and royalties in the several books of which Mr. Norris was author.

BRIDE AND BRIDE-TO-BE.

Wedding and Engagement Announcements Interest Cairo Society.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CAIRO, Ill., Nov. 7.—The marriage of Miss Rose Sidney Lohr, daughter of Mr. Andrew Lohr, vice-president of the Enterprise Savings Bank of this city, to Mr. Frank Prentiss Ayer of Elizabeth, N. J., was celebrated here yesterday at the family residence and was attended by Cairo society and that of nearby towns. Mr. Richard King Kaufman of St. Louis acted as best man, and his fiancée, Miss Emma Lohr, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. The wedding was characterized by refined good taste throughout. The bride was gowned in an exquisite Paris gown of hand-run lace over white satin and white plumes and carried an immense bunch of chrysanthemums. The maid of honor wore a handsome gown of yellow embroidered chiffon over yellow tulle with Duchesse lace bertha and carried lilacs of the valley. After the luncheon of eight courses the bride's father formally announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Emma, to Mr. Richard King Kaufman of St. Louis.

New Automobile Record.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—A new mile automobile record was made here yesterday at Boudonville. Henri Fourmies, of the Automobile Club of France, covered a mile in 1:14.4 seconds and a mile in 1:14.4 seconds, thus breaking the record held by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.

Fourmies' time was made in spite of muddy roads. His machine traveled at the rate of 75 miles an hour.

Chicago Lawyer Arrested.
Richard A. Wade, a Chicago lawyer, was arrested last night at the Planters' Hotel, upon the request of the Chicago police department. The visitor is wanted on a charge of receiving stolen property and will be taken back to his home today.

He stated he had learned the Chicago chief of police was seeking him, so he sent that official a telegram yesterday telling where he was and that he was ready to enroll his part in the matter under investigation. Later a telegram came to the local police requesting his arrest.

Wade says he received about $1000 worth of furs to be handled for a client, and the property is said to have been stolen. He claims that he can satisfactorily explain his connection with the case.

GRAIN DIFFERENCE

The Quaker quality of grain is not easy to find. To supply the needs of the Quaker mills we must search the country far and wide. We watch where the good oats grow. For even as it grows the difference begins. Sun may shrivel—or too much rain spoil the crop. But where the crop is best, we are there to choose the best of the best. There is that much difference in the Quaker grain—before it starts for the Mill. This is only the first difference in

Best grain.

Costs you no more than oats which are not as wholesome, and which have not been milled as carefully and expensively. Quaker Oats is just as easy to buy. You have only to say "Quaker" distinctly.

MILLING DIFFERENCE

After we buy the best, each single grain is cleaned and judged separately by machinery. The machine leaves nothing to chance. Thin and woody, flat and flavorless, are thrown out. Here is a difference of time, care and thoroughness. The great that is good enough to pass this test is indeed different from other grain. It begins to have a right to the name of

Quaker OATS

FLAVOR DIFFERENCE

Pan-roasting is where most millers save time. Their oats are rush-milled—for the profit's sake. Quaker Oats is milled with patience—for the quality's sake. But slow and costly as it is, there is profit in it—profit of quality, not the profit of cheapness. The patient Quaker pan-roasting brings out the nut oil of the oats and toasts it to that rich "different" flavor, by which you know

Car Scattered Beer.

Car 1557 of the Lee avenue line crashed into a Columbia Brewing Co. wagon last night and smashed a load of bottled beer, causing a loss of about $200. Henry Hendride, the driver, was bruised about the legs and body. The accident occurred at Fifteenth and North Market streets.

PRINCE OF SIAM WILL BE GUEST
SATURDAY NIGHT.

Judges Surprised Spectators by Disqualifying Ralph Orthwein's
British Lion for Lameness—
Potato Race Proved Amusing.

Through the instrumentality of Mr. Max Orthwein more than 2000 little fellows were given the opportunity to attend the show, and to say that they enjoyed it is a waste of space. They saw the most attractive exhibition by far since the opening of the show, and they assisted in making the largest and most appreciative audience of the week. The program was cut short owing to the extreme lateness of the hour, but it could have been continued indefinitely by common consent.

Royalty, in the person of the Crown Prince of Siam, will attend the show Saturday night, and the presence of Mayor Wells and President Francis.

SOCIETY RADIANTLY GOWNED.

The clear night permitted the wearing of gowns that the three previous evenings had caused to be discarded. The result was extremely gratifying to the eyes.

The tandem ring was the best of its kind ever seen in this city, and Mr. John R. Bratton won with his great team. His wife, Emphise and My Sister, also won with their pair, Marie and Odette, while Mr. Archie Bratton won with his pair, Marie and Odette. It was a great surprise to the spectators when the judges disqualified the team of Mr. Charles Bratton, who had won on the ground that he was slightly lame.

The horse's owner protested, but the judges refused to allow the animal had just won the brougham prize a few moments before, and the lameness was not apparent when.

The potato race, in which riders pick up potatoes on sharpened sticks and deposit them in a box at the other, with permission to impede their opponents in every possible manner, has elicited the loudest and most prolonged applause. All in all the program was excellent in every particular and each class could be commended upon to advance to length. The exhibitions were most commendable and it was to those who attended the previous evenings said was the acme of excellence, and a better one still is promised for tonight, which will be the last of the season.

The following is a summary of the win

LOGGED TOOL TRUST PROPOSED.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A consolidation of logging manufacturers of axes and certain sets of edge tools is in prospect.

A meeting of the various parties in interest has been held in this city, but nothing official was given out. The new company probably will be known as the International Axes and Tool Co. and will have an authorized stock capital of about $20,000,000. It is to be a holding company, the object being to bring the total capital up to something like $100,000,000. It is said the new enterprise will be incorporated under the laws of New York.

dealers merging the plants of the large manufacturers of axes, hatchets, scythes and other tools, prominent manufacturers of hand and grindstones are a constituent part of the proposed company. At the same time it is intimated that some steel manufacturers from whom the machine acquires its raw material may also be included.

The Problem of a Tired Mother

One of the marvels of our time is the way in which the average mother carries all the burdens of social, benevolent, church and family life. It's no wonder that nerve troubles attack the mother—how can she help being nervous, especially while the little ones are so troublesome? No woman can endure the strain of her housework and two or three little ones unless her digestive powers are unusually good. She can't manufacture force enough to stand the strain.

We can suggest one thing that will surely help her, and it isn't a drug poison either. It is Vinol, made by a new process from that wonderful remedy, cod liver oil; it's a true tonic.

Vinol is pleasant to taste, "goes right to the spot," nourishes and helps the food to nourish, is splendid for nursing mothers and all tired out home helpers. I have found it safe and good for ailing children. With Vinol to correct the constipation, it has put whole families in this place on the road to health. Used in time, it saves nervous break-down. Your money back if you don't find this true.

FIRST LOVE WON
AFTER 50 YEARS
PAWNED WATCHES
KEYS TO MYSTERYWilhelm Joerding Wed His Early Sweetheart.

BOTH HAVE BEEN MARRIED

HE CONSOLATED HIMSELF WITH HER YOUNGER SISTER.When Both Were Bereaved, Courtship
Was Renewed, and Aged Woman Came to America to Be Again a Bride.This is a bit of the marriage license record. It looks commonplace enough in itself but it holds a romance that reached from one continent to another. It was the culmination of a betrothal made in Germany over 40 years ago. Since the pledge was given both persons have taken marriage vows but not for each other.Almost a half century ago Wilhelm Joerding lived in Elfeldt, Westphalia, Germany.He was a hard working young man and loved dearly his little sweetheart Frederika. She loved him and they were betrothed. Money was not plentiful for them, and so they agreed to wait. Wilhelm worked hard and saved.The German army service, after its heartless fashion, cast a shadow over these lovers. Wilhelm cared not to be a soldier.
He wanted to work so that Frederika might the sooner be his frau. To accomplish his purpose he left the Fatherland for America—the haven of many another victim of the German army system.Of course he left Frederika behind, but he did not forget her. He worked hard and saved well. When five years were over he was ready to have her come. He had not written many times in those years. He was waiting until he could write the best tidings.DID NOT WAIT FOR LOVER.
The news came too late for Frederika.
She was not so constant as her lover across the sea, or else she was wandering in faith.
When the letter came saying that a home was waiting for her in St. Louis she was already a wife.Wilhelm did not gnaw his heart out.
Neither did he seek to drown his sorrow in the Mississippi. He worked harder.One day he remembered that Frederika had a younger sister named Caroline. He wrote to her. She was the woman nearest his lost sweetheart. She replied to his letters. Her letters made him glad, especially the last one, which was herself. They were married in St. Louis.For over 30 years they lived here quietly.
They reared a family of three sons and became the possessors of property. Joerding worked in a box factory. For ten years he was an employee of Julius Lehman. With his savings he bought a two-story brick building near 4008 North Twenty-fifth street.BOTH WERE LEFT ALONE.
His wife corresponded with her sister, Frederika. Two years ago Frederika wrote that her husband, who had been told that thatcher, was dead. One year ago Joerding's wife, Caroline, died.After her death the home was lonesome without a woman's presence. He wrote a letter to his one-time sweetheart and told her so. She answered that letter and many more. As her sister had done, she answered the last one by coming herself.That was three months ago. She brought with her the only one of her children who was not married—a young man of 22.Neither the children of Joerding nor those of Mrs. Brokmeyer thought of marriage for their parents. They were so old, and then it seemed as if they were related.Whether it was a desire to live out the promise of the long ago, or whether it was the revival of a love that had never died, is not known, but Thursday the old couple slipped away and were married.Rev. Otto Balser of the Evangelical Church performed the ceremony.All afternoon Joerding had been helping his tenants, Trenthrop and Schrader, to move. Late in the day he went off to see about some business, as he said, and Friday his license was in the papers.There was no celebration of any kind.
Friday morning the bride of 60 years went to work straightening the home which should have been hers so long ago and worried not that all the neighbors watched her at work, much interested in the completion of her romance.FOR GOMPER'S PLACE.
Mitchell May Be a Candidate Before
Federation of Labor.Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—It is said that John Mitchell, president of the Mineworkers Union, will be a candidate for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor, which will meet at New Orleans
Nov. 13.The Industrialists' faction of the organization is for Mitchell.PARTY HEADQUARTERS CLOSE.
Democrats Have Adjourned Until Next Campaign.The Democratic state headquarters in the Commercial building were closed Thursday evening and will remain closed until the next campaign. Chairman Rothwell and Secretary Mitchum have returned to their respective homes at Moberly and Sedalia.The Republicans have not yet decided whether they will close their state headquarters at the Lindell Hotel. They have been open continuously for three years.Shakels for Charity Asked.
Next Sunday has been set apart by the American Federation of Zionists as shakel

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Alan Gregory
Mason has the bearing of a cultured
Boston gentleman.
He is slight in build, barely more than 5 feet 6 inches in height, high forehead, slickly combed dark brown hair, a close-clipped mustache, sunken eyes, pale cheeks, yet apparently healthy and bright.
He has the softest of brown eyes and an almost appealing look in their depths.
His shoulders set well back, and he occasionally moves them backward to show their muscular strength. His step is springy and light, the walk of a trained athlete.
His hands are small and shapely.Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Surprising events have succeeded one another with kaleidoscopic rapidity within the last few hours in the investigation of the case of Miss Clara A.
Morton, for whose alleged murder Alan G.
Mason, a member of one of the oldest families of Boston, is awaiting preliminary trial.The first stir was caused by the recovery of the murdered girl's watch in the pawnshop of Joseph Nissen in the west end of Boston, a section tenanted by negroes.The watch was found in the same pawnpshop of the silver watch carried by Agnes McPhee, who was killed near the Cambridge boundary on the evening of Oct. 3.The friends of Alan G. Mason hold that the newly discovered evidence will absolutely offset the testimony of the street car driver, who claimed to have seen a man from Waverly on the trip from that town on 10:28 Saturday night.Pawnpshop Describes Miss Morton was attacked at 9:30 in the pawnpshop of the MacLean Hospital. Pawn-broker Nissen says Miss Morton's watch was first offered to him shortly after 11 o'clock.Conductor Brown declared Mason left his car, a mile and a half away, about 10:35.
The pawnpbroker says the watch was tendered him by a young man who was dark enough of complexion to be an Italian. He is positive it was not a negro or mulatto.The man was small, thin faced and very swarthy.
The stranger, he says, wanted $5 for the watch, and he refused to make a deal.On Monday, shortly after noon, the watch was again brought to him and offered for sale. This time it was tendered by a young negro, or mulatto, about 21 years of age.Then a negro, much older and larger than the other, came in front of the shop and took the watch. The man who had been unable to say whether he had seen the man before, but he says he can identify them.Evidence That Person Killed Two Women.
The finding of the watch of Miss Mc-Phee is added evidence of the identical origin of the two crimes, and the fact that the watch was found in the same pawnpshop still further points to one man as the author of the outrages.Miss McPhee was attacked on the night of Oct. 3. Her watch was pawned the next day. The man who was found in the pawnpshop was a dark man, with a roman nose and small mustache. The man wore a slouch hat and carried a revolver. The man, he says, was about 5 feet 6 inches in height.He was the same man who offered to sell Miss Morton's watch to you on Saturday night, he was seen by a neighbor.
"I don't know," answered the pawnpbroker.Mason's friends are confident they can prove a complete alibi for him.Thirteen Victims of the "Slugger."
Thirteen women were victims of the "slugger's" attacks. Two of these have died from the effects of his blows. Here is the list:June 17—KATE O'CONNELL, wounded on the scalp.
July 17—EDGIVRIED GASTAFSON, received severe scalp wound.July 27—ELLA MURPHY, head badly cut.
August 9—JEANETTE MARSHAL, her skull fractured when she was struck by a stone.October 10—SUSAN O'NEILL, knocked down and strangled.
October 16—MRS. BYRON ELDRED, threatened with a revolver on Saturday night.October 19—JANE LADELL, knocked down.
October 22—BERTHA SMITH, struck on the head.October 24—LULU MIXER, seized by the neck and choked.
October 26—MRS. F. H. STENTFORD, struck on the head and back.October 30—MRS. W. H. WHITNEY, struck on the head and back.
November 1—CLARA MORTON, skull fractured; died.Dr. Harris Says
"A Man of Wealth."
The autopsy performed on the body of Clara Morton by Medical Examiner Harris and the conclusions he drew from his examination formed no small part of the assistance which the police have had in working up the case. Dr. Harris declared that the man who had killed the woman was a man of wealth.He cannot say that he knew anything beyond what I found in the examination.
But from certain things which I learned I can form conclusions which endorse my own ideas. I know that a fracture of the skull killed the woman. I am satisfied that she was struck twice. She was struck with a club or a stick of wood.How Millionaire Schwab Is Getting a Rest.
Some Moments of Repose, Pictured by Artist Kahles.

Steel Magnate Charles M. Schwab's European doctor says his millionaire patient is tired out from the continuous physical strain he underwent here and that he is now taking a much-needed rest. If the cable reports about Mr. Schwab's record-smashing auto rides, his hiring of limited trains and skipping of speedy yachts be true, and this represents the millionaire at rest, what a tied-up and anchored-down object a man standing still must be!

THIS WOMAN CAN
KEEP A SECRETFRIENDS THOUGHT MRS. MEYER
A "MISS" EIGHT MONTHS.

STRIKE CAUSED WEDDING

Husband Was Temporarily Out of Work and He Took That Time to Wed.Mrs. Julius Meyer of Belleville has given proof that a woman can keep a secret for at least eight months. She kept secret the length of time that she had been married.Since the 8th day of May she has been the wife of Mr. Meyer, and all that time she has passed among her relatives and friends as Miss Mary Sieben. She revealed her cherished secret last Sunday to her relatives, but most of her friends still do not know that she has changed her name.A strike was the cause of the May wedding. Mr. Meyer was temporarily a striker at that time and had more spare time than he knew what to do with. He spent all of it with Miss Sieben. They were engaged, but they did not intend to get married before fall. But they talked it over and decided that they might as well improve Mr. Meyer's strike vacation by getting married without letting anybody know about it.Miss Sieben told her parents she was going to Freiburg to visit her sister, Mrs.
Albert Williams. Instead of going there she went to Belleville the next morning and met Mr. Meyer. He was sufficient, he says, to prove that the Chinese delicacy may be grown with profit on Arkansas soil, which heretofore has been considered unfit for cultivation because of the swamps which abound.Last spring Mr. Wallace, having read that rice is grown best on soil similar to that in the swampy part of the Roycroft plantation, decided to try an experiment.He ditched and drained a parcel of the wet land and planted it to rice. The planting was done June 4. Later Mr. Wallace learned that he should have planted earlier to get the best results.As it was, the rice produced is of excellent quality. Next year Mr. Wallace proposes to put in his crop early and to employ more improved methods of cultivation.
He says he has learned that the soil and the climate are adapted to the cultivation of rice, and he believes that with a little more experience he can grow a profitable crop and thus turn into a commercial asset land that has been deemed practically worthless.In that part of Arkansas, in antebellum days and since, cotton has been the chief crop and the rice planter has been the poor man. Lately, however, progressive farmers have gone into the district, and they are reclaiming the low land by a system of drainage. A bright agricultural future is predicted for the land.Cricket Club's Banquet.
The St. Louis Cricket Club held its annual banquet last night at Bretling's cafe on Broadway. Dr. Alexander Murray, the president, delivered an address of welcome;
Captain F. W. Hatchett rendered his report; Frederick F. Fitcher and W. C. Clinch spoke on cricket playing; O. B. Kewin gave a recitation.The banquet was a success. The club's annual meeting was held at the same time.
The club's officers for the coming year are:
President, Dr. Alexander Murray; Vice-president, Captain F. W. Hatchett; Secretary, Frederick F. Fitcher; Treasurer, W. C.
Clinch.St. Vincent's Parish School.—The school club of St. Vincent's parish will give a select supper and old-fashioned luncheon in the school hall, Ninth street and Park avenue, at 12 o'clock on Saturday, Nov. 8.
The supper will be a success.

FIRST RICE GROWN IN ARKANSAS

Charles Wallace Produced Successful
Crop on Drained Swamp Land Near Wabeseca.That rice can be grown successfully within 400 miles of St. Louis has been demonstrated by Charles Wallace, a farmer on the Roycroft plantation, near the town of Wabeseca, Ark., along the Cotton Belt route.Mr. Wallace has just sent to St. Louis some specimens of the rice he cultivated this year as an experiment. The results of his planting are sufficient, he says, to prove that the Chinese delicacy may be grown with profit on Arkansas soil, which heretofore has been considered unfit for cultivation because of the swamps which abound.Last spring Mr. Wallace, having read that

THE ONLY MAN IN THE RACE

"UNLESS, OF COURSE, HE SHOULD DO SOMETHING TERRIBLE."Easy Boss Says He Will Probably Consent to Go Back to the Senate
Because His Party Needs
Him.BY JAMES CREELMAN.
Written for New York World and St.
Louis Post-Dispatch.Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—"The Republican victory in New York State and the continued Republican control of the House of Representatives is due largely to the work of President Roosevelt," said Senator Platt to me today."His renomination is a certainty, unless,
of course, with a smile and a gentle wave of the hand, 'unless he should do something terrible, which is not likely.'"
"And the effect of the reduced Republican plurality in Congress—what will that be, Senator?""I should say that it would warn Republicans of the danger of the party dis-sentiments and make them a unit. It will solidify the Republican party.""But will it not rather warn Republicans that the time has come for a general revision of the tariff?"Not Time for Tariff Revision."I think not." The senator paused for a moment and drummed on his desk with his long, fine fingers."My impression is that the loss of strength revealed in this campaign will rally the party to the protective tariff policy more than ever.""Of course, there will be Republican individuals in Congress who will advocate tariff revision, but they will stand as individuals and not as partisans to that extent at least.""With a narrow working majority in Congress, Republicans will realize the peril of experimental quarrels on great economic questions.""Your own future, Senator. Will you be re-elected, the Senator?""I hardly know what to say."
"There is no disposition to oppose you, is there?""None—none whatever. My leadership is as complete as ever. If I desire to go back to the Senate I can do so. The only question is whether I wish to continue my work. My health is good and I feel no loss of mental energy or interest in public affairs."Needs His Party.
"But I am not a young man and my physical strength is not great; yet—the senator smiled almost boyishly—"I shall probably consent to go back to the Senate. I must keep up my efforts for my party.""The fact is, that, if I should retire from the leadership, a great many undesirable things might happen. The figures of Tuesday's vote are interesting to look at, and my great desire is to promote the ac-cendancy of the Republican party and its policies. For that reason, as much as any other, I shall continue in the leadership, and I shall probably consent to return to the Senate, although," the senator's expression returned to the thin face, "how long I can serve is another question."It is impossible to convey in words the pathos of Senator Platt's physical weakness as it is today, and at the same time preserve the sense of mental power which he suggests.

Tom Johnson is much encouraged. It might have been worse, you know.

Gen. Alger will after a while embalm his opinions in the Congressional Record.

As both Russia and the United States say they have "a divine mission" in China, John will do well to look out a little.

The Philippines cannot truthfully say that we have done nothing for them. Instead of being garroted they can now be hanged.

Outrages, intimidation, mob force, police criminality, etc., are reported from the election in Porto Rico. Are the islanders already Americanized?

NO MORE STRIKE QUESTION.

The story of the inspection of the mines and miners' hovels by the strike commission is not pleasant reading. The conditions of labor are calculated to "take the starch" out of a man and the conditions of living are so squalid that only the degradation of the population can perpetuate it.

Whatever the merits of the questions raised by the strike, no sane observer can fail to see the danger of such conditions. We cannot afford to degrade any considerable portion of the population that a few men may make large profits or that consumers may get commodities cheap. Cheap goods on such terms are too costly.

The question is broader than the issue between Baer and Mitchell. It involves more than the price of anthracite or industrial peace in the Lehigh.

That the President failed to shoot a single turkey in Virginia is attributed to the fact that the hunting party which he led was hoodooed by a rabbit dog which accompanied them. It would have been better had this explanation not been made. Every real hunter knows that a rabbit dog is a hoodoo in turkey hunting.

GOOD MERCHANT; GOOD WARES.

On Wednesday, a St. Louis boy, George Ackerman, sold 100 separate copies of the Post-Dispatch to citizens passing his corner at Eighth and Olive streets. He had several times sold nearly a thousand copies a day, but on Wednesday he announced to his fellow newboys that he would reach the 1000 mark "or bust." He reached it.

This feat, which was fully appreciated by the newboys of the city, was possible because of the combination of two important factors—a good merchant and good wares. Of course, the good market must not be forgotten, but in the best market a poor merchant or poor wares make poor business. In a market like the downtown streets of St. Louis, a merchant such as George Ackerman showed himself to be with the Daily or Sunday Post-Dispatch as merchandise, can not only do good business, but make such a remarkable record as he has done.

The people read the Post-Dispatch. They know that it contains the first and best news, together with a large assortment of interesting reading for the home circle. Hence, when a wide-awake newboy sets out to make a record selling it, everything is in his favor. He has something to offer that everybody wants.

It is to be hoped that no European power will allow itself to be overshadowed by any other European power in the World's Fair. We shall then have foreign exhibits worthy of so great an Exposition. The report that German enterprise in this direction is stirring the British is good news.

THE FOREMOST QUESTION.

Chancellor Chaplin of Washington University told an unwelcome truth in an address on "Some Educational Questions of the Present Day" before a Webster Groves club.

"Foremost of these questions," he said, "is the sure indication that, unless things change, woman will become the better educated than men, due to numbers of the boys leaving school so much earlier than the girls, and to the increased number of girls taking a college course."

This is rightly called the "foremost" question. The half-millennium desire to "get to work" seems to animate a vast majority of the American people. And even eminent educators are lending their best wits to the task of contriving some course of training which can be got through in a hurry. The humaner objects of study are dropped, "practical" subjects are substituted, and the course is shortened. The one object seems to be not to make a man, but to construct a machine which will "do things." It doesn't seem to matter what a man is. The only consideration is, what can he be made to do?

The two can't be separated. If the man's humanity is neglected he is sure to become a groveling slave, and he is not the less a slave because he does great things and dominates large masses of his fellow slaves.

The education that makes a man—that is the only true education. And it isn't obtained by shooting a boy through the grammar school where he learns to spell and is taught to make the elementary calculations of commerce. If educators yield to this grotesque notion, some of them seem to be doing—they will prove themselves sorry guardians of the people's welfare.

In answer to the saying that a man has a family to support, a Washington woman asks: "How many an aged father and mother have had their tottering step supported and how many a younger brother and sister have been started in life by the self-denying woman clerk? There are several kinds of families, it seems, who require support."

GIVE US MORE GUM.

Chew, chew, chew, till the brain begins to swim! Chew, chew, chew, till the eyes are heavy and dim.

The women of this country spend more than $5,000,000 a year for chewing gum. The greatest gum-chewers are the women of Cleveland, O. The second is Chicago, and St. Louis is third.

Nobody knows where the practice started. Manufacturers, those shrewd fellows, say that Cicopatra was a gum-chewer, and intimate that Helen of Troy and Baphoe, and perhaps Aspasia and Sappho, were much given to this peculiarly feminine habit.

Whatever the origin, gum-chewing may conservatively be said to be the pet vice of the American women—for doctors say it is. According to the statistics of the gum-chewers, the women of the United States are said to be the greatest gum-chewers in the world.

Whisky and smoke rank cigars and do other things to disorder their systems and befoul their breaths, but the ladies, bless them, stick to gum.

Blessed be the $5,000,000 gum bill as compared with the billion dollars which rude, coarse men spend for strong drink every year. Gum may hurt the digestion, but never yet has it been recorded that it inspired a human being to theft or murder.

It doesn't occur to the Republican organs that one of the reasons for the tremendous reduction of the Republican vote in St. Louis is the villainous government. A Republican administration gave the city; nor that the Democrats owe their recent success to nearly two years of good government. Bad government and bad candidates do not win victories nor hold majorities.

THE NEW CHARTER.

It is hardly worth while to open a discussion of the question of amending the city charter under the new constitutional provision. St. Louis needs a new charter, a charter adapted to new St. Louis—to the conditions of a modern city.

We have had a generation of experience with the old charter and have thoroughly tested its qualities. We have learned that it is inefficient by practical experience that a great city is a corporation and that its government should be modeled on the lines of a business corporation. Its sole function is to attend to the business of the people of the corporation—make streets and sewers, open and improve parks, build public buildings, attend to public lighting and regulate all public utilities. Its laws are mere rules for the orderly guidance of the people.

What we want, therefore, in city government is an efficient government based on council in which power and responsibility are centered. We want the simplest and most efficient form of corporate organization to determine the needs of the city and apply the city's revenues to those needs.

Our present double-headed government, with a practical working side subject to the will of a political legislative side, is cumbersome and inefficient. The political side should be cut off. We need only a practical working board to direct the city's business and expert heads of departments to do the work with economy and dispatch.

The numerous legal controversies between women and their tailors suggest the thought that women's clothes may become too elaborate.

HEROIC WOMEN.

Shooting bears and catamounts may be strenuous work, and charging up San Juan Hill with a dozen pairs of spectacles sewed in one's blouse may be daring and patriotic, but are these things any more commendable than the action of a young woman who cleaves to her post of duty when racked with pain?

Miss Zoe Adams is a stenographer, employed in the St. Louis office of a great railroad system. While going to work Thursday morning she was thrown violently to the street in a street car accident, yet she hobbled to duty and sat down bravely before her machine and commenced work as usual, until overcome by physical pain. Learning of her condition, her employers insisted that she seek medical attention.

Why is a soldier who fights, though wounded, braver than the woman who works, though wounded, with never a word of complaint? Why do we praise one and ignore the other? Miss Adams' case is by no means isolated. Woman was ever faithful to her trust. All honor to the heroic American woman!

The necessity of electing some women to the bench is emphasized by those cases in which misfit feminine suits are brought. It is too much to ask the masculine judicial mind to wrestle with the mysteries of feminine apparel. Solomon himself would have been stumped by a new gown case. His baby case was comparatively easy.

A Washington physician asserts that wood alcohol has a specific and destructive action upon the optic nerve, usually causing total blindness after a small dose. Even the inhalation of the fumes is likely to have the same effect. He makes the statement because this alcohol is used in the adulteration of certain beverages.

The question as to whether a railroad company has the right to charge storage on baggage not removed from a station within 24 hours is soon to be decided by a supreme court. A lower court has decided that there is no such right.

Since the opening of the library of Congress in Washington on Sunday, "people go there in never-ending streams." Why not have a library open on Sunday as well as a saloon?

As the majority in the House can throw out as many of the minority as it pleases, it is impossible to know at present just how the parties will stand in the new Congress.

By all means let us have the universal postage stamp, good in all countries. When all countries are licking the same stamp they may think less of licking one another.

One of the election surprises is an anti-saloon majority in the Tennessee legislature. Legislators in many states have been among the best patrons of dram shops.

The organs all over the country are extremely busy in explaining how their party losses came about. Organs are untrustworthy both as prophets and explainers.

The Philippines will doubtless note that the President has just said it is a good thing to read the Declaration of Independence every Fourth of July.

Our Butterflies.

St. Louis girls should be on the lookout. Now is their time to become distinguished. When Prince Henry came to St. Louis last March he made a mental note of the names of several citizens who had been especially attentive to him, and after he returned home he told his royal brother about them, with the result that Mayor Wells, Chief Kieley and others were decorated with the Order of the Red Eagle. Whereupon they were immensely puffed up.

The Crown Prince of Siam, who is coming to town tomorrow, has organized the Order of the Butterflies, an institution of which he does not even have to ask permission of his royal dad to request a girl to join, and the fine thing about it is that the membership is composed entirely of girls. Three beautiful Americans have already been honored by being enrolled, and if the prince gets out of St. Louis without getting his book full it will be a wonder, considering the lovely bunch of material he has to select from.

St. Louis may soon be full of Royal Lady Butterflies of every description.

What is a Red Eagle compared to a butterfly? Let us hear no more of Prince Henry and the royal beneficiaries. The Butterfly is the thing!

A VERY DELICATE DISPUTE.

From the London Telegraph.

Rather an amusing discussion on the subject of low dresses has lately been carried on in the columns of a Parisian contemporary. "She knows how much it is best to wear," said the poet, but it must be admitted that this does not altogether settle the question of "decollétagé."

Writer asks how it comes about that a woman who would deeply resent an impatient glance when she is taking a morning walk can complacently make her appearance with bare neck and arms in the evening. This is a contradiction for which as must be confessed, it is not easy to find a plausible explanation. "Decollétagé," another maintains, "is matter of climate and custom." Yet the jest which was made over the diminutive hat might be applied to the corsage: "The makers will at this rate soon be sending only the bill," the article being invisible. Another authority tells us that the first decollete gown of which mention is made in the history of costume was that worn by Queen Isabeau, of Bavaria. The fashion was at its height in the time of the Valois kings and flourished again considerably during the reigns of Louis XIV and his successors. It was not to be put down by the revolution, which created such havoc among other customs, and now it seems to run less risk than ever of disappearing.

MAKING COLORS.

In the manufacture of artists' colors, animal, vegetable and mineral substances are largely used. Crimson and purple lakes and carmine are all obtained from the cochineal insect. Sepia, the dark fluid discharged by the cuttlefish to render the water opaque for its own concealment when attacked by a larger fish.

Prussian blue is made by fusing the hoofs of horses with impure potassium carbonate, and ultramarine is obtained from the precious mineral known as lapis lazuli.

Gamboge is the yellow sap of a tree which grows in Siam, and raw sienna is the natural earth from Siena; when burnt it becomes burnt sienna. Turkey red is made from the Indian madder plant.

At Amarah, an Arab town of sun-dried bricks, situated on the verge of a bank a little above the broad, turbid waters of the Euphrates river, we saw for the first time those wonderfully ancient boats—ancient even when Herodotus mentioned them—called "kufas" or "gophers." They are deep, round baskets, in appearance somewhat like the coracles of the ancient Britons, and are covered with bitumen, with incurved tops.—Wide World Magazine.

SAVED HIS HAT FROM BURGLARS.

Dan Ritchey, assistant manager of the Planters, tells a funny story of a man's love for his silk hat.

He was a traveling man from New York, introducing a new railroad appliance, and only made big railroad towns where he could get next to presidents, master mechanics and boards of directors. He was in St. Louis recently and put up at the Planters.

As became his business, for he was no ordinary drummer, he wore a silk hat morning, noon and night. The hat was very sumptuous and shone like a mirror. Persons who came in contact with him noticed his solicitude for his hat, how he nursed it when he had occasion to remove it and how he polished it anew with his silk handkerchief before he replaced it on his head.

The third morning of his presence in town he appeared in the lobby of the hotel in a traveling cap, carrying a 111-shaped bundle in an old newspaper.

"I wish you would send this to a hatter and have it blocked," he said to the head clerk.

"What is it?" said the clerk, unwrapping the newspaper. He revealed a silk hat crushed until it looked like a camera bellows. "Hello! What's happened to this? Must have been run over by a trolley car."

"No," replied the man from New York, grinning and blushing. "I'll tell you how it happened. It is funny. Last night I dreamed that a burglar was trying to get into my room to steal my hat. It was a mighty realistic dream, too. I tell you when I woke up this morning I looked for my hat the first thing. It was gone. The burglar had it, sure. I looked everywhere but could not find it.

"Well, I dressed myself and sat down on the bed to think where I had left that hat, for I knew it couldn't have been stolen. I put my hand down on the bed beside me and felt something hard. I turned the sheets back, and there was the hat, just as you see it. That dream was so real that I arose in my sleep and hid it from the burglar."

Why Gen. Funston Shunke.

Charles F. Scott, a Kansas editor and life long friend of Gen. Fred Funston, the hero of the Philippines, tells an amusing story of the brave but diminutive soldier.

"Funston," said Mr. Scott, "was built for an adventurous career. He is 5 feet 3 inches tall and has a chest girth of 36 inches—plenty of room for lungs and other necessities. His expeditions into the extremes of temperatures have injured him to hardship, and he is the master of savage man. He is a pretty big man now in spite of his inches.

"But I remember the time when he was made to feel even smaller than he is. When he was a young chap he was a reporter on a paper at Fort Smith, Ark., which position he gave up to become a collector on the Santa Fe trains between Kansas City and El Paso. He was given a brand new uniform, with plenty of gold buttons and gold lace on it, and the first day he assumed his duties he felt eight feet high.

"Soon after the train pulled out of Kansas City it stopped at Turkey Creek. At that instant Funston threw open the door of the Pullman car and entered grandly. It was as still as death until a small boy piped out: 'Say, maw. Look at that funny little sawed-off conductor.'

Funston immediately shrunk back to his 5 feet 3 inches again.

School Children at the Polls.

Your editorial in this evening's publication upon "School Children at the Polls," deserves a careful thought of every member of society who has the welfare of our public school system at heart, and I for one am proud to be a subscriber of a paper that has the courage to denounce anything that tends to carry our public school management back to political domination. Fourth-grade politicians engineered by superintendents and principals should be strenuously opposed, and not encouraged. Within the heart of a mother's class (supposedly) was called at the High School on Grand avenue by the supervisor of our kindergarten. Many an innocent mother went to school to the rearing of her little ones; instead she heard a political stump speech from this worthy lady, how to compel her husband to vote. Are these the lessons, I should like to hear, that our principals and superintendents, encouraging and perverting, worthy of gridding and training our children? Well, may you say, "this misadventure of 1902 must not become a precedent, and no matter how worthy the cause, let it not have a repetition of this disgraceful blunder." St. Louis.
